PRIMA Institute 2008 offers risk management education for seasoned risk managers as well as those new to the profession. There are five programs within PRIMA Institute to choose from: the Foundations in Risk Management Program; the Associate in Risk Management 54 - Risk Assessment (ARM54) tutorial and testing; the Associate in Risk Management 55 - Risk Control (ARM55) tutorial and testing; the Associate in Risk Management 56 - Risk Financing (ARM56) tutorial and testing; and the Risk Management for Public Entities (RMPE) tutorial and testing.

Interested in earning an ARM or ARM-P designation?

PRIMA Institute offers all three ARM tutorials and exams in addition to the RMPE tutorial and exam, so you can take your pick! PRIMA's ARM and RMPE tutorials are specifically designed to prepare you to take and pass the Insurance Institute of America's (IIA) exam. These three-day classes feature an intensive all-day tutorial followed by a multiple choice exam on the fourth day.

New to risk management? Get onboard with the Foundations Program!

Those with less than two years of experience will benefit from this four-day course designed to help new risk managers, or just those with risk management responsibilities, get grounding in the technical and managerial aspects of their jobs. Jump-start your success on the job by familiarizing yourself with the five-step risk management process.
